OUR FINANCIAL CONDITION.

In proving that imports include what exceeds a moiety of the aggregate trade of this country for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1869, we have shown that they amounted in gold values to $437,000,541, and that the exports of all descriptions were only $415,057,000, leaving an excess of imports over exports during the year of $22,000,000. This, however, is only a part of the truth. There must be added to the net home indebtedness of the year $50,000,000, which is the amount of bonds carried out of the country, and about the value of the gold sent abroad. There must be added to the net home indebtedness of the year at least $30,000,000 as interest on American bonds held by foreigners. This interest indebtedness has been settled either by the exportation of gold, or by remittances in the form of our own indebtedness to European countries. Add the amounts and results together, and we have, in round numbers, about $542,000,000 as the measure of our indebtedness to foreigners for the year 1869. We know of a reduction of our national debt by fifty millions since Gen. U. S. Grant's inauguration, and of a reduction of the interest of our foreign indebtedness by one-quarter by their payment. But the value of the Gold of Foreign trade being expressed as by the action of the Government in terms of our currency, and the latter being subject to many fluctuations, and not to be depended upon for the truth and fixedness of its value, which can be determined by it, the only safe method of ascertaining the amount of our indebtedness is to measure commodities, and we have, in round numbers, $542,000,000 as the measure of our indebtedness

Charles H. Wright was buried yesterday. The funeral services were held at the house of mourning, on the corner of Ohio and Dearborn streets, at 2 o'clock, and were conducted by the Rev. The remains were then taken to Rose Hill Cemetery, where they were deposited in the family vault.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

A CHICAGO CORRESPONDENT of the Rockford Register has furnished that paper with an account of the wedding of Mr. Richard Town, a convict in the Illinois State Penitentiary, to Miss Drummond of the Commercial Hotel, Chicago. From which we take the following: "Mr. Town was brought from the State Prison, from which we take the following: "Mr. Town was brought from the State Prison, from which we take the following: "Mr. Town was brought from the State Prison, from
